Unit 3/A: cram sheet

AP US History · Blue days Wed 11/4, Orange days Fri 11/6

Key ideas

1. Election results: Washington (vice president Adams); 1796, Adams (vice president Jefferson, from the other party); 1800, Jefferson (vice president Burr).
2. Hamilton's plan (funding, assumption, the Bank) tied the rich to the new government and split the country into the first two parties.
3. Washington's foreign policy: neutrality after Genêt, the Jay Treaty (no war with Britain) and Pinckney's Treaty (the Mississippi and New Orleans).
4. 1798: the XYZ Affair, the Quasi-War, the Alien and Sedition Acts, and the Kentucky and Virginia Resolutions' states' rights answer.
5. Votes needed: two-thirds to override a veto, ratify a treaty or remove an official; three-fourths of the states to ratify an amendment.

Election results

1789, 1792		Washington (no party); vice president Adams.
1796		Adams (Federalist); vice president Jefferson (Democratic-Republican), from the other party.
1800		Jefferson; vice president Burr. Tie decided by the House; Hamilton backed Jefferson; led to the 12th Amendment.

Washington and Hamilton

First Congress	1789	Revenue Act (first independent income), departments, Judiciary Act, Bill of Rights.
Assumption		Federal takeover of state debts, so creditors back the government; capital goes south.
Bank	1791	Strict (Jefferson) vs. broad (Hamilton) construction, so the first parties form.
Whiskey Rebellion	1794	Federal excise; Washington's militia; two treason convictions, pardons; law enforced.

Foreign policy and 1798

Genêt	1793	French diplomat goes to the public; Washington stays neutral.
Jay Treaty	1794	Forts back, war avoided, impressment not stopped.
Pinckney's Treaty	1795	Mississippi, New Orleans deposit, 31st parallel.
XYZ	1797	Bribe demand, so anti-French fury, so the undeclared Quasi-War.
Alien and Sedition	1798	Three acts hit immigrants, one hit Democratic-Republican editors.
Kentucky / Virginia		Jefferson / Madison: states judge federal law; early states' rights; clashes with Supremacy.
Revolution of 1800		First peaceful transfer of power between parties.

Votes needed

Two-thirds	Override a veto (each house); ratify a treaty, convict and remove (Senate); propose an amendment (each house).
Three-fourths	States needed to ratify an amendment.
Majority	Pass a bill; impeach (House); confirm judges (Senate); win the presidency (electors).
All 13 / 9 of 13	Amend the Articles / ratify the Constitution.

The West

Land Ordinance	1785	Township 6 by 6 miles = 36 sections of 640 acres; 16th section for schools.
Add-a-State	1787	Appointed governor, 3 judges, secretary; legislature at 5,000 adult free males; statehood at 60,000; no slavery.

Articles to Constitution

Articles	1781	One house, one state one vote, no president, no national courts; states sovereign.
Weaknesses		Could not collect taxes, regulate interstate trade or enforce; amendments needed all 13.
Shays' Rebellion	1786	Private money paid the militia, so the Articles looked too weak, so leaders called a convention.
Convention	1787	Philadelphia, 12 states, Washington presiding, Madison's Virginia Plan; a new government.
Great Compromise		House by population, Senate two per state (Virginia Plan had both by population).
Three-Fifths		3/5 of enslaved people for House seats and direct taxes; slave trade protected until 1808.
Commercial		Federal power over foreign and interstate trade; no export taxes.
Ratification	1788	9 of 13 state conventions; Bill of Rights promised.

Traps

5,000 vs. 60,000	Legislature vs. statehood.
Excise vs. tariff	Whiskey tax was an excise.
1796 vs. 1800	Adams with Jefferson as vice president vs. Jefferson with Burr as vice president.
Federalists	1787 = pro-Constitution; 1790s = Hamilton and Adams's party.

Articles weakness, Constitution fix

One house, one state one vote	Two houses: House by population, Senate equal
No executive	A president who enforces the law (Article II)
No national courts	Supreme Court and federal courts (Article III)
Could levy taxes, could not collect them	Congress can lay and collect taxes
No power over trade between states	Congress regulates foreign and interstate commerce
No army, no enforcement	A national military; federal law enforced
Amendments needed all 13 states	Amendments need three-fourths of the states
States supreme	Supremacy Clause: federal law is the supreme law of the land

The first parties

	Federalists	Democratic-Republicans
Leaders	Hamilton, Adams	Jefferson, Madison
Government	Strong national government; broad construction	Smaller government, states' rights; strict construction
Who	Merchants, bankers, large farmers	Southern planters, small farmers, urban workers, new immigrants
Where	Port cities, New England	Farm areas, the South and West
Abroad	Pro-British (trade)	Pro-French (ideology)
Backed	Assumption, the Bank, Jay Treaty, Alien and Sedition Acts	Kentucky and Virginia Resolutions
