____/20

1. John Adams's idea of a natural aristocracy held that
   1 Pts

leaders should come from noble families.

people with talent and drive would rise to lead, and leadership should be open to them.

voting should be open to all men regardless of property.

pursuing wealth was the main duty of a citizen.

2. Most northern states ended slavery after the Revolution through
   1 Pts

state constitutions and gradual emancipation.

the Northwest Ordinance of 1784.

the Three-Fifths Compromise.

an act of the Confederation Congress.

3. The new state governments formed during the Revolution generally gave
   1 Pts

governors most of the power.

Congress the power to approve state laws.

most of the power to the legislatures.

judges the power to appoint governors.

4. The Mount Vernon Conference of 1785 showed the weakness of the Articles because
   1 Pts

Maryland and Virginia had to settle their Potomac River dispute on their own.

Washington refused to serve in the Confederation Congress.

it was attended by only five states.

it called for a convention in Philadelphia.

5. The Northwest Ordinance of 1787 was significant because it
   1 Pts

allowed slavery in the territories until statehood.

gave the land north of the Ohio River to Britain.

made new territories permanent colonies.

set a process for territories to become states equal to the original thirteen.

6. Under the Land Ordinance of 1785, the government sold land in whole sections, which meant that
1 Pts

most first buyers were land speculators who subdivided it for small farmers.

only veterans could buy western land.

states kept the profits from western land.

Native Americans received every 16th section.

7. Shays' Rebellion was put down by
1 Pts

the Continental Army under Washington.

a militia paid for by Massachusetts bankers and merchants.

British troops still in the Northwest forts.

the federal army created by the Constitution.

8. The Annapolis Convention of 1786 led directly to
1 Pts

the Revenue Act of 1789.

Shays' Rebellion.

a call for a convention to amend the Articles of Confederation.

the Land Ordinance of 1785.

9. The Virginia Plan favored the large states because it
1 Pts

based representation in both houses of Congress on population.

gave each state one vote.

created a Senate with two members per state.

let state legislatures choose the president.

10. Southern delegates at the Constitutional Convention wanted enslaved people to be counted fully for both representation and taxes.
1 Pts

counted for taxes but not representation.

left out of the census entirely.

counted for representation but not for direct taxes.

11. Impeachment under the Constitution means that
1 Pts

an official is removed from office.

the House has formally accused an official.

the Supreme Court has found an official guilty.

the president has fired a cabinet member.

12. The Judiciary Act of 1789
1 Pts

filled in Article III by creating district courts, circuit courts and the Supreme Court's structure.

gave the Supreme Court power over state legislatures.

created the cabinet.

ended the slave trade.

13. Hamilton's plan for the federal government to assume state debts was opposed by
1 Pts

New England merchants.

speculators holding state bonds.

Virginia, which had already paid off much of its debt.

South Carolina, which was deeply in debt.

14. Hamilton defended the constitutionality of the Bank by pointing to
1 Pts

the Tenth Amendment.

the Necessary and Proper Clause and implied powers.

the Three-Fifths Compromise.

the Supremacy Clause's ban on state banks.

15. Hamilton's Report on Manufactures proposed
1 Pts

an end to all tariffs.

a national bank owned by the states.

excise taxes on imported goods.

tariffs and subsidies to build American industry.

16. Which group was most likely to support the Democratic-Republicans in the 1790s?
1 Pts

Southern planters and small farmers

Bankers in port cities

New England merchants trading with Britain

Holders of Bank of the United States stock

17. Pinckney's Treaty with Spain set the southern border of the United States at
1 Pts

the Ohio River.

the Mississippi River.

the 31st parallel.

the Gulf of Mexico.

18. The Quasi-War was
1 Pts

a declared war against Britain.

an undeclared naval war with France.

a frontier war with Spain.

a revolt in western Pennsylvania.

19. The Kentucky Resolutions of 1799 went further than the Virginia Resolutions by
1 Pts

declaring nullification the rightful remedy for unconstitutional federal laws.

calling for a national convention.

asking the Supreme Court to strike down the Sedition Act.

endorsing the Alien and Sedition Acts.

20. The election of 1796 produced
1 Pts

a tie between Jefferson and Burr.

the first transfer of power between parties.

the 12th Amendment.

a Federalist president and a Democratic-Republican vice president.

Answer Key

1. John Adams's idea of a natural aristocracy held that people with talent and drive would rise to lead, and leadership should be open to them.

Why: Adams said birth and wealth should not close the leadership class. Opening the vote is Paine; wealth is Hamilton.

2. Most northern states ended slavery after the Revolution through state constitutions and gradual emancipation.

Why: Abolition was state by state. The 1784 plan's slavery ban failed.

3. The new state governments formed during the Revolution generally gave most of the power to the legislatures.

Why: Colonists distrusted governors, the king's stand-in, so legislatures held the power.

4. The Mount Vernon Conference of 1785 showed the weakness of the Articles because Maryland and Virginia had to settle their Potomac River dispute on their own.

Why: The Articles government could not settle disputes between states. Five states attending was Annapolis.

5. The Northwest Ordinance of 1787 was significant because it set a process for territories to become states equal to the original thirteen.

Why: It also banned slavery in the Northwest Territory and gave settlers a bill of rights.

6. Under the Land Ordinance of 1785, the government sold land in whole sections, which meant that most first buyers were land speculators who subdivided it for small farmers.

Why: The 16th section's sale funded schools. Speculators had the money for whole sections.

7. Shays' Rebellion was put down by a militia paid for by Massachusetts bankers and merchants.

Why: The state was too weak to pay. The Constitution, and its army, did not exist yet.

8. The Annapolis Convention of 1786 led directly to a call for a convention to amend the Articles of Confederation.

Why: Only five states came; Hamilton pushed for a broader convention in Philadelphia.

9. The Virginia Plan favored the large states because it
based representation in both houses of Congress on population.

Why: Two senators per state came from the Great Compromise, not the Virginia Plan.

10. Southern delegates at the Constitutional Convention wanted enslaved people to be counted for representation but not for direct taxes.

Why: More seats, fewer taxes. The compromise counted three-fifths for both.

11. Impeachment under the Constitution means that the House has formally accused an official.

Why: The Senate then holds the trial; two-thirds are needed to convict and remove.

12. The Judiciary Act of 1789
filled in Article III by creating district courts, circuit courts and the Supreme Court's structure.

Why: Article III is short; Congress supplied the court system.

13. Hamilton's plan for the federal government to assume state debts was opposed by Virginia, which had already paid off much of its debt.

Why: South Carolina would have been relieved by assumption, so it favored the plan.

14. Hamilton defended the constitutionality of the Bank by pointing to the Necessary and Proper Clause and implied powers.

Why: Broad construction: a means not prohibited that serves listed powers, like taxing and borrowing.

15. Hamilton's Report on Manufactures proposed
tariffs and subsidies to build American industry.

Why: Many tariff ideas passed in 1792, but not the full program. An excise taxes goods made at home.

16. Which group was most likely to support the Democratic-Republicans in the 1790s?
Southern planters and small farmers

Why: The others were the Federalist base.

17. Pinckney's Treaty with Spain set the southern border of the United States at the 31st parallel.

Why: It also opened the Mississippi and gave the right of deposit at New Orleans.

18. The Quasi-War was an undeclared naval war with France.

Why: It followed the XYZ Affair and ended with the Convention of 1800.

19. The Kentucky Resolutions of 1799 went further than the Virginia Resolutions by declaring nullification the rightful remedy for unconstitutional federal laws.

Why: Virginia called for states to interpose and left the form open. The Supreme Court never ruled on the Sedition Act.

20. The election of 1796 produced
a Federalist president and a Democratic-Republican vice president.

Why: Adams and Jefferson. The tie and the party transfer were 1800; the 12th Amendment came after.