Part III: Essay plans and sample answers

Prompt 1.

1. Topic sentence: SEER is how Catholics form their conscience and act on it in everyday decisions.
2. Study: facts, Scripture and Church teaching, trusted mentors.
3. Elect: choose what fits who you are as a child of God; pray.
4. Execute: actually do it; the true test of a formed conscience.
5. Review: look back; peace if right, repent if wrong.
6. Example: return a found wallet, walking through all four steps.
7. Closing: forming conscience is lifelong; obey a certain conscience.

Sample answer. The SEER method is a process Catholics use to form their conscience and act on it when making everyday moral decisions. The first step, Study, means learning the facts of the situation and what Scripture and Church teaching say about it, and asking trusted mentors for advice so that self-interest and prejudice do not cloud our judgment. The second step, Elect, means choosing the right course of action, one that fits who we are as children of God and as Catholics, and prayer is an essential part of this step. The third step, Execute, means actually carrying out the decision, which is the true test of a formed conscience because many people know what is right but never follow through. The last step, Review, means looking back at what we did: a well-formed conscience is at peace when we chose well, and when we chose wrongly it calls us to repent and do better. For example, if I found a wallet at school, I would study what the Church teaches about stealing, elect to return it, execute by bringing it to the front office, and review how I handled it. Following SEER keeps forming and informing our conscience, which is a lifelong task. In the end, SEER helps us obey a certain conscience and do what is truly good, not just what feels right.

Prompt 2.

1. Topic sentence: SEER helps me choose what is right instead of going along.
2. Study: rumors hurt dignity; love of neighbor; ask a trusted adult.
3. Elect: stand up for the student; pray for courage.
4. Execute: tell the friend to stop; refuse to repeat it (fortitude).
5. Review: did I act out of love?
6. Closing: conscience matters more than fitting in.

Sample answer. In this situation, the SEER method helps me make the right choice instead of simply going along with my friend. First, I would Study the facts: a rumor damages another person's reputation and dignity, the Church teaches that we must love our neighbor, and "everyone does it" does not make something right. I would also ask a trusted adult, like a parent, for advice. Next, I would Elect to stand up for the student who is being hurt, and I would pray for the courage to do it, because that choice fits who I am as a child of God. Then I would Execute my decision by privately telling my friend to stop and by refusing to repeat the rumor myself, which takes the virtue of fortitude. Finally, I would Review what happened, asking whether I acted out of love and what I could do better next time. Even if my friend is upset with me, following a well-formed conscience matters more than fitting in. SEER turns knowing what is right into actually doing it.

Prompt 3.

1. Topic sentence: the Beatitudes show what to do now to build attitudes that lead to lasting happiness with God.
2. Beatitude 1 (for example the merciful): empathy and forgiving with no strings attached.
3. Modern example: forgiving a friend who spread a rumor and not bringing it up again.
4. Beatitude 2 (for example the peacemakers): actively settle conflicts and restore relationships.
5. Modern example: calming a fight in a group chat instead of taking a side.
6. The rewards are not only future; the Kingdom has a present dimension.
7. Closing: living the Beatitudes leads to the happiness God made us for.
